WHILE FRANK OLDHAM, A YOUNG FARMER

living southeast of Pendleton, was harrowing a piece of new ground Saturday he aroused from slumber two ugly and enormous black snakes, measuring about twelve feet, that immediately showed fight. They first made a rush at the young man and tried to coil themselves around his legs, but he escaped from their shiny embrace and made for the fence, closely pursued by the serpents.

When the snakes saw that Frank was out of their reach on the fence they returned to the horses, which had been left standing, still attached to the harrow.
Soon the horses were noticed to be rearing and kicking and performing acrobatic feats that would surpass Barnum's trained equines.

The man, mustering up his courage armed himself with a fence rail and hastened to the relief of his team. He found one reptile coiled around the foreleg of one horse, and the other snake around one of the hind legs of the other horse.
The serpents struck the defenceless animals repeatedly, while the air resounded with a peculiar hissing noise.

After a struggle of about thirty minutes the farmer succeeded in beating off the reptiles and releasing the scared team.
He then mounted the harrow and a chase commenced, the horses at full speed dragging the harrow and Frank, with the snakes in close pursuit. The fleeing team raised a cloud of dust, and when it reached the opposite side of the field the snakes were lost to view. A party with guns and clubs was quickly organized to search for the snakes, but was unable to find them.—Cor. Indianapolis Journal.

Now that Stanley has returned to Europe the sale of his book may be said to have practically ended. Most of the subscription agents have finished up their work and a survey can be made of the results. I learn that it has been one of the most successful ventures ever undertaken. It was thought that the book was not making much of a hit, but this only shows how quietly success was achieved. Some particulars of this sale will be interesting.

The Scribners paid Stanley $50,000 in cash before a line was written. They recently settled the account to date by paying him another $50,000, representing a sale of 100,000 copies, as their contract required them to pay him fifty cents on each copy sold in addition to the first $50,000. The book sold from various prices, from $7.50 to $13, but it has been averaged at $8.50, so that the house receives, in gross, $850,000 from the enterprise.

After paying Stanley his $100,000 and the large commissions to canvassers, averaging about 50 per cent. on the retail price, there remains a net profit to the firm of at least $150,000.—New York
Cor. Washington Star.

Coining a Lot of Dimes.

Director of the Mint Leech said in response to a question: "Yes, there is apparently a great scarcity of dimes, judging from the requests for them now coming to the treasury. I do not know what the cause of the scarcity is; but the fact that the requests for them are from large cities, and especially from New York, would tend to confirm the suggestion that the scarcity is largely due to the new dime pocket savings bank which has recently been introduced. Apparently large quantities of dimes are being taken out of circulation and locked up in those boxes. I have ordered large quantities to be coined to meet the demand."

"Last month $168,000 worth was coined at the Philadelphia mint, and $80,000 worth more is being coined there now, while $30,000 worth is being coined in the San Francisco mint. There was an unusual demand for dimes last October, the cause of which I do not know. In all we coined last year $1,183,000 worth."
—Washington Cor. Boston Herald.

The Boston Tea Party.

Andrew Walker, of Kennebunk, Me., now eighty-two years old, thinks he may be the last person living who has talked with a man who took an active part in the famous "Boston Tea Party of 1773." This man's name was Jonathan Mitchell, and at the time of the revolution he was employed on a coasting vessel between Kennebunk and Boston, and happened to be in Boston on the evening of Dec. 16, 1773. The old man evidently was not an American patriot, for he said: "It was too bad to see so much good tea thrown overboard, so I thought I would save a little. Taking a boat, I went to the side of one of the ships where men were throwing the tea into the water and endeavored to put some in the boat, but the scoundrel saw me and tried to drown me, and I was glad to get back to the coaster again alive."
Mitchell died in 1840, aged ninety-five years.—Exchange

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

To-day, July 4th, is America's greatest holiday. It is the 15th anniversary of the birth of freedom which occurred in Philadelphia in 1776, when representatives from the thirteen colonies, Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina and Virginia signed the immortal Declaration of Independence. That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness, and in the name and by the authority of the good people of these Colonies, solemnly published and declared, the United Colonies are and of right ought to be free and independent States, and absolving them from all allegiance to the British Crown. It is a National holiday by Act of Congress and a local holiday by Act of the Legislature of each and every State and Territory of the United States. It is observed in various ways by every American citizen and the Stars and Stripes, the emblem of the liberty which all American citizens enjoy, and which all should endeavor to maintain, flows on the breeze from one end to the other of our broad domain.

There are now forty-four States in the Union, each represented by a star in the flag, and each guaranteed its sovereignty, freedom and independence and every power, jurisdiction and right which is not by the Articles of Confederation expressly delegated to the United States in Congress assembled, and in each and all of those States American citizens, whatever their religious or political opinion, join in celebrating the anniversary of the Nation's birth and freedom.

THE POPULATION OF NEVADA.

The Census Bureau yesterday issued a revised bulletin on the population of Nevada. The population of this State is shown to be 45,731, a decrease of 16,505, or 26.51 per cent, since 1880.

This great falling off in population, in a decade when the number of inhabitants of the United States increased over a million annually, implies that Nevada is incapable of sustaining as large a population as it had ten or eleven years ago. So by, however, is not the fact. There are more farms and a larger area of land under cultivation today than in 1880, and, as a consequence, more permanent homes in the State. The great falling off has been in the mining towns Virginia City, Austin and Eureka have lost heavily, and mining camps such as Unionville and Spring City in Humboldt county, Grantsville in Nye county, and Hamilton and Cherry Creek in White Pine county, have been nearly depopulated.

The direct cause of the decrease of population in Nevada since 1880, has been the demoralization of silver. This caused a decline of from 25 to 35 cents an ounce in the price of the metal and closed all but the richest mines. It drove prospectors from the mountains and depopulated mining villages. It deprived gamblers of a market for their products and caused teamsters to leave the State. It closed hotels, and with a click-math and carpenter-ships, and was more disastrous to saloons than prohibition. It caused churches and school houses to fall into ruins, and deprived thousands of employment, compelling them to seek other fields for their labor. It has been more destructive to the prosperity of the State than flood or drought, and yet there are men who uphold and defend those who are responsible for the legislation that caused it.

THE GAZETTE IS MISTAKEN.

The Gazette, through ignorance, was charged enough to hope, misrepresents the Journal. This paper does not hold to the belief that the McKinley bill is responsible for Director Lach's policy of cutting down the wages of the women and men who work by the day at the Carson Mint. It merely stated that Mr. Reed's Congress, which proclaimed that the McKinley bill would increase the wages of American labor, showed that it had no faith in its own medicine, by reducing the appropriation for running the Mint, and adopting the tactics of Eastern monopolists, by forcing those who work by the day at the Mint to submit to a reduction of wages or seek employment elsewhere.

If the Administration believes that the McKinley bill increases the wages of labor why does it compel those in the employ of the Government to work for less wages than they received before that bill became a law?

The Gazette should bear in mind that the tie-plate clause of the McKinley bill, which was to enhance the price of labor, and the order reducing the wages of Government employes, went into effect the same day. The Journal does not attribute this to the McKinley bill but to the party that passed the bill.

TERRIBLE RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

Nineteen Persons Killed and Their Bodies Burned.

Special to the Journal.

RAVENNA, July 3.—Nineteen people were killed and twelve injured in an early hour this morning in the most frightful railroad accident of the present year. At 3 o'clock the east-bound express on the Erie road was lying at the station while some repairs were being made. Flagman Boynton was sent back with lamps to ward off any possible danger from the rear. Suddenly, without warning, the headlight of a locomotive flashed around the curve, and a fast stock train dashed down the steep grade from the west, crashing into the rear of the passenger train standing quietly at the depot. There was some dreadful mistake and nineteen human lives were crushed out in a moment and twelve persons maimed and injured.

The passenger train was about ten minutes late at the time of the accident. It lay on the main track just at the bottom of a steep grade and though the men knew they were followed by a fast freight, no one seemed to think the freight was at their very heels, and once on the down grade coming into the station it was a hard matter to stop it, especially as the freight did not intend to make Ravenna a stopping place. What might have been expected actually happened. The freight was making time and came down the hill with a rush, the engine and tender being fairly hurled through the rear cars of the passenger train.

When the correspondent arrived on the scene after the accident the scene was awful. Piteous cries for help arose from the heap of wreckage, and willing hands were already tearing at the heap of broken and twisted timber and iron. Suddenly, here and there, tiny tongues of flame sprang up from the crevices of the wreckage. Fire had added to the horrors of the wreck, and fight as they would, the rescuers could not drive the flames back from the writhing victims who shrieked and implored in vain for help that was willing enough but was far too weak to star aside the iron and timbers before the wreck and flames had done their worst. There were very few injured who did not die, and very few dead who were not bruised and blackened and burned beyond recognition. There was no delay in rendering assistance but all efforts were fruitless until the arrival of the city fire department. At daylight a fearful crowd of several hundred stood at the station gazing on the sickening sight, while all about them was the smothering odor of burning human flesh arising from the black mass heaped up in the wreckage.

Probably the most fearful sight was the appearance of the boiler of the freight engine. In the first shock the front end of the boiler was broken in and as the engine plunged its way through the mass of humanity four poor fellows were actually scooped up in the cauldron. There they lay slowly roasting to death before the eyes of the spectators, who could not aid them. These were afterwards fished out piecemeal by the firemen's hooks and covered with sheeting. Aid for the wounded was soon at hand, but for the dead there was nothing but to hide them from sight as soon as possible.

The Acton building was then transferred into a morgue and the masses of burned flesh were hooked out they were hastily removed there, and either stretched at full length or buddled in little heaps.

The Tamalpais Fire.

Special to the Journal.

SAN RAFAEL, July 3.—This afternoon the wind took a favorable turn, and the Tamalpais fire is now in a fair way to be conquered in Ross Valley. The men sent out this morning succeeded in back firing the woods, so that it is now almost a matter of impossibility for the residence portion of Ross Valley to be harmed. Nothing but the smouldering and smoking trunks of trees and half-burned chaparral and obelisk brush adorn the once beautiful "Bill Williams' gulch."

The Bolinas stage passed over the mountain road to San Rafael this morning. The driver states that the fire will not be as great as was expected this morning. It is now, with the exception of several small brush fires, confined to what is known as the Potrero, a level section thickly wooded situated about half way between the summit and the ocean. All the fighting forces who have been employed at the summit have concentrated at this point, and should a strong wind not arise it is probable that by to-morrow the fire will have been all extinguished.

Bank Examiner Drew's Case.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Bank Examiner Drew of Philadelphia was at the Treasury Department several hours to-day. He had a conference with Secretary Foster and Comptroller Lacey in regard to his connection with the Keystone National Bank of Philadelphia, and was informed that his service was no longer required by the Government, but whether he was dismissed or allowed to resign could not be learned.

The Salton Lake Caused by Surface Water.

Special to the Journal.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—A Chronicle special from Yuma says: The important fact is now established that there is flowing on the surface in a channel of New river from the Colorado river at a point 15 miles below Yuma to the Salton Sink. This afternoon parties who arrived from the desert say: Indians say that the water has been running from the Colorado river into New river ever since the flood last February. Railroad officials here are now convinced that the water in the desert lake comes from the Colorado river. One of the exploring parties which is now out will examine the break in the bank of the Colorado river and see if the water can be stopped.

Diamond Robbery.

Special to the Journal.

NASHVILLE, July 3.—This afternoon while F. Wiggers and a colored porter were alone in the former's jewelry store, a man entered and asked to look at silverware. Wiggers went to the rear of the store to show the goods. The customer was hard to please and finally left without purchasing. On going to the front of the store Wiggers found $8,000 worth of diamonds gone, the tray in which they were kept being thrown under the counter. The theory is that a pal of the silverware customer slipped in and stole the goods while the latter was in the rear of the store.

Alaska News—Gored by a Bull.

Special to the Journal.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 3.—The steamer Queen arrived from Alaska this morning. It brought no news of importance. The canneries were all preparing for operations. A farm hand employed in Soanwich was brought to the hospital last night, having been badly gored by an infuriated bull. The unfortunate man had one arm broken and his abdomen fearfully gashed.

Business Suspended.

Special to the Journal.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—To-morrow being a holiday, business will be suspended generally throughout the city, and all the public buildings closed. The San Francisco Produce Exchange and Call Board adjourned from noon to-day until Tuesday morning next.

Transfer of Banking Business.

Special to the Journal.

CARSON, Nev., July 3.—Wells, Fargo & Co., have disposed of their banking interests here to the Bullion & Exchange Bank of same place, and transferred all debts, etc. This leaves Carson with but one bank.

This is the largest business transaction that has occurred in Carson for years.

Death From Excessive Heat.

Special to the Journal.

SACRAMENTO, July 3.—The excessive heat of the past three days caused the death of two Southern Pacific employees, Louis Gundert and John Howard. Both were prostrated Wednesday, Gundert dying early this morning and Howard yesterday.

DIED.

MILLS—In Truckee, July 2, 1891, a infant son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Mills of Truckee, aged 7 weeks. The funeral took place here yesterday at the residence of Mrs. Mary Jones, the mother of Mrs. Mills.

WHAT IS SCROFULA

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors," which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can IT BE CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. "My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofula sore neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. CARLISLE, Nauright, N. J. N. B. Beware of Counterfeits for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury and is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Sold by druggists, price 75c per bottle.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she became a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became a Girl, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

BREVITIES

Bar silver, 100%.

Fred Winchell of Janesville arrived in Reno yesterday.

The mail train from the East was four hours late last night.

Senator Foley and wife left for Virginia City yesterday afternoon.

W. E. F. Deal of Virginia City returned from San Francisco yesterday.

Officer Nash has an attack of the grippe and is confined to the house.

J. G. Kerth, of the Pacific Brewery, says he is shipping more beer than ever before.

Judge Webster and party have returned from a fishing excursion to Pyramid Lake.

Frank Germain arrived from Winnemucca last evening to spend the Fourth.

Mrs. S. Levy and Mrs. H. Morris and their families left for Lake Tahoe yesterday.

H. W. Sawyer of Wadsworth is in Reno. He says the mercury reached 100 in that town.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Clark of Mill City arrived in town yesterday to spend the Fourth.

Louis Dean, who went East two weeks ago with a train load of fat beavers, has returned.

R. E. Queen of Louisville, Ky., formerly of Reno, was a passenger for San Francisco Friday night.

George Mosher, forman of the JOURNAL, accompanied by his family, left for the west side of the Sierra last night to visit relatives.

The hot wave seems to have spent itself. Yesterday was cool enough for everybody but the ice men.

Dr. Mullen left yesterday for Donner Lake. He carried a fishing rod as though he meant sport.

A thief entered the room of Rufus Casey of Wieland's Brewery night before last and stole clothing valued at about $200.

Dr. Mayo Greenlaw, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hofer and Miss Hattie Russell left yesterday afternoon for Lake Tahoe by way of Truckee.

C. A. Jones, the lawyer, arrived from San Francisco yesterday to spend the Fourth of July in Reno. Mrs. Jones has been here several days.

Adolph Ball, agent for Nevada for Wieland's lager, is doing a land-office business, and has to work day and night to fill orders from all parts of the State.

General C. C. Powning and wife and Miss Agnes Bell left for Virginia City yesterday afternoon. The General is to deliver the oration at the celebration on the Comstock.

Colonel H. B. Maxon returned last evening from Fort McDermitt, where he has been making surveys. He says whites and Indians have squatted on the bay reservation.

The Central Nevada says it is informed that the Kellogg zinc mine, in I. X. L. District, has been bonded to an English syndicate for $75,000. The ore contains silver as well as zinc.

The Reno Guard, about fifty strong, will leave at 7:45 this morning on a special train for Virginia City. There are about seventy members in the company, but they are not all provided with uniforms.

To enable the JOURNAL force to celebrate the Fourth of July in a becoming manner no paper will be published from this office to-morrow. Printers are patriotic and like to celebrate the national holiday as well as other people.

The Silver State says Winnemucca is infested with a plague of gnats. They annoy the residents of the town and are killing hens and chickens. The wet season is the cause of so many of the insects being on the Humboldt.

The Wadsworth Board of School Trustees elected Miss Alice L. Ede Principal and Miss Minnie O'Hare assistant teacher of the public school at that place for the ensuing year. There were many applications for the positions.

The hotel at Kyle's Hot Springs in Humboldt county, was burned to the ground with all its contents Thursday night. The property was owned by Josiah Springer, who had been to considerable expense in improving it.

Every precaution should be taken by our citizens to-day to prevent fires. The ubiquitous small boy will explode fire crackers, regardless of danger to buildings, and care should be taken by older people that he does not start a conflagration.

J. F. Blunt, representing Chadwick & Co. and F. H. Terrell & Co., leather, boots and shoes dealers in San Francisco, visited Reno yesterday. He says times are dull all over the coast and boots will not advance money to farmers on growing crops in California.

The Silver State learns from J. V. McCurdy that Steve Thomas has made a rich gold discovery in Dun Glen, about three miles south of the Lang Syne mine. The quartz is covered with gold, and contains thousands of dollars to the ton. Humboldt will yet prove to be one of the richest mining counties in the United States.

MORAL VS. PHYSICAL COURAGE.

Valedictory Delivered by Miss Alice Mabel Stanaway at the Commencement Exercises of the Reno High School.

If we examine carefully the pages of history we shall find them covered with lights and shades. Here we shall find them recording deeds of charity and mercy; there of hatred and oppression; here the pure and brilliant conceptions of art, science and religion; there the evidences of ignorance, blasphemy and sensuality; here sprinkling with deeds of heroism; there stained with crime.

There are those who prefer to look only on the "shades," and dwelling entirely upon them they see nothing but evil in the world. The jewels of purity, honesty and heroism are unknown quantities to them, and the world is always growing worse. Let me call your attention for a few moments to some of the "lights" illustrative of my theme.

Horatius on the Sublian bridge, fighting against fearful odds, keeping back, with the aid of two brave companions, a whole army until the bridge could be destroyed, and then plunging into the river and successfully reaching the Roman shore amid a perfect storm of arrows, is one of the most picturesque heroes in Roman history.

"And still his name sounds stirring Unto the men of Rome,
As the trumpet blast that cries to them,
To charge the Volscian home.
And wives still pray to Juno
For boys with hearts as bold
As his, who kept the bridge so well
In the brave days of old."

In 1481 the Austrians, armed with long spears, invaded Switzerland in strong force, and there was but a small number of determined men to resist them. The handful of brave Swiss met the Austrians near Sempach, but the Swiss spears were the shorter, and being vastly outnumbered they were compelled to give way, fighting desperately as they retreated. Then Arnold von Winkelried, seeing that all efforts of the Swiss had failed, exclaimed to his countrymen, "I will open a path to freedom! Protect, dear comrades, my wife and children." Then he rushed forward, and, gathering in his arms as many spears as he could grasp, he buried them in his bosom.

He fell, but a gap was made; the Swiss rushed in and gained a complete victory. Arnold von Winkelried died, but he saved his country, and to this day the people of Switzerland assemble on each 9th of July to celebrate their deliverance from the Austrians by the true self-sacrifice of their brave leader.

Joan of Arc, a simple-minded peasant girl in France, heard the wail of her countrymen when the English armies were desolating the fair plains and valleys of France. She heard mysterious "voices"—whether real or imaginary it matters not—which told her that she was to redeem her country from the invaders; that she was to lead the French armies to victory.

She sought the King, favorably impressed she was given command and, mounted on her white charger, in the midst of war's alarms, to the astonishment of men and officers and of all the world, she led the French armies to victory after victory. Yet, notwithstanding her great service, to the world's shame, be it said, she was executed as a criminal.

Such examples of physical bravery and courage are numberless. Men and women figure in them, brightening history's dark pages and giving us higher ideals of duty and patriotism. By such noble acts, what great victories have been achieved; what great influence and benefit have fallen upon society and civilization! To men and women of this character we largely owe the existence of our free, great and glorious nation. All honor to them!

But there is another courage which far surpasses this—the courage that displays itself in silent effort and endeavor, that dares to endure and suffer all for truth and duty—a courage more truly heroic than physical doings, that are rewarded by honors, titles and acclamations. It is more courage that characterizes the highest order of manhood and womanhood—the courage to be honest, to be just, to speak the truth, to resist temptation, to do one's duty. Each step of progress in the history of man has been made in the face of opposition and difficulty. It is through this courage that we gain our knowledge, wisdom, and everything pertaining to the elevation of mind and character.

There is scarcely a great truth or doctrine but has had to fight its way to recognition against the scorn and jeers of the people. The great prizes of life were never won without moral courage to face the frowns of a scoffing world.

"Not a truth has to art or to science been given,
But brows have ached for it and souls toiled and striven."
In the time of affliction, is not this quality a great comfort? It helps one to bear up under heavy grief and to lift the weight of sorrow from the overburdened heart.

It was moral courage, supported by a lofty faith, that gave Mary Queen of Scots her strength, in her long imprisonment, to plead her innocence, to pray for her enemies, and, finally, to endure calmly the ignominy of death.

Socrates was condemned to drink the hemlock in his seventy-second year, because his lofty teaching ran in opposition to the prejudices and the mistaken party spirit of the age. He not only had the moral courage to brave the tyranny of the judges who condemned him to death, but also of the vast mob that could not understand him. When he was dying he still discoursed on the immortality of the soul.

Galileo, for advancing scientific theories universally accepted to-day, was brought before the Inquisition and charged with opposing the scriptures. But through his body was weak, his soul was strong, and he continued his investigations, and in spite of edicts and jeers he kept toiling on, content in the knowledge that truth is mightier than courts, or mobs, or armies and must over, in the end, prevail.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

In the face of the scoffs and jeers of his contemporaries, Columbus crossed the trackless and unknown Atlantic, discovering a new world. How secure now his fame! What a monument to his genius this American continent! And what a reminder of his services to mankind will be the Columbian Exposition at Chicago!

Confined for seven years in an English prison, John Bunyan wrote that marvelous work "Pilgrim's Progress." He remained in prison for all those years because he would not forego his high moral convictions. His was a moral courage that is rare in modern times.

There are many grand examples of moral courage, and, although the achievements in physical valor are generally more highly rewarded by man, God always rewards the good, the true and the honest, who possess moral courage, and who try to make their lives on earth emblems of love, purity and kindness, ever seeking to elevate and enable the race.

As the sun tinges the drops of rain in the clouds, forming the beautiful rainbow, so moral courage shining through the sad clouds of disappointment lights our lives with the splendid hues of a nobler humanity, making us truer and purer and grander in all that goes to make up right manhood and womanhood.

If thou canst plan a noble deed
And never flag till it succeeds,
Though in the strife thy heart should bleed,
Whichever obstacles control,
Thine hour will come; go on true soul!
Thou'lt win the prize, thou'lt reach the goal.

Fellow classmates, companions through many days of the past, the time to which we have so long looked forward, has at last arrived. To-night our lives as a class—working, playing, singing, enjoying or disliking together all those things that make up the sum of school life—end forever.

Life is filled with partings, all more or less sad, some mingled with bitter, and others, like this occasion, so filled with hope and joyful anticipations of the future that it is hard to tell which we feel the most strongly—the sweet or the bitter.

As a class in the past we have worked together harmoniously. Few and slight and quickly forgotten have been the things that have at any time disturbed our friendly relations, and the ties we have formed in our school will never wholly be severed while life lasts. This is our commencement day, the beginning of a new division of our lives. Our hearts are filled with happy thoughts of the future, and as if in sympathy with us, nature has donned her loveliest dress and decked herself with flowers. To-day life seems a path strewn with roses, and though we know that thorns are hidden by the foliage we need not heed them now.

Though here we bid farewell to school, we look back on days not wholly mispent, surely. We shall cherish their memory as the happiest of our lives, remembering only the pleasant and soon forgetting those things that may have seemed at times the reverse.

Of our teachers, who have led us so far up the hill of knowledge, who have instructed, aided and encouraged us, we have none but the most kindly thoughts. We heartily thank them for all they have done for us, and trust their lives may long be spared to aid and encourage others, and to enjoy many of life's sweet blessings. They shall ever hold a warm place in our hearts.

To the Board of School Trustees for providing us able and zealous teachers, and to the good people of Reno for so liberally and patriotically supporting the public schools, we return sincere thanks. A nation's strength, it has been truly said, is in its public schools more than in its armies.

Comrades, friends, as we bid adieu to school and to each other, let it be with the determination to go on with the good work begun, let us build on the foundations laid, and build so well that when the end of life shall come, of us it may be truly said, the world is the better for their having lived in it.

He has led a manly life and she was a most womanly woman; through life they have been earnest and patriotic, true to their classes motto "Not a day without a line."

Church Notice.

Methodist Episcopal Church—Sunday, July 5, 1891, the pastor, Rev. F. V. Fisher, will preach at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Morning theme "In the desert with Moses," evening subject, "The battle of the crucifix." Epworth League at 6:15 P. M.; Sunday School at 12 M. All cordially invited.

Fourth of July.

Ice cream and a nice lunch will be served by the ladies of the Congregational Church at the Denning store, near the Opera House, on July 4th.

RUSSELL DRAMATIC CO.

One of the Best on the Road.

The Russell Dramatic Company is billed to appear in Reno Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, July 7th and 8th. The company has been playing in Virginia City to good houses for a week and the press of that city eulogize their performances. The Enterprise says: "This company is one of the best companies on the road. Their repertoire is composed of the best standard dramas, and they never fail to draw. The following ladies and gentlemen compose the company: Mr. Albert Hosmer, Lew Wood, George Hernandez, John McGlynn, Wm. Oscar Don, Frances W. Bacon, Stewart Fletcher, William M. Russell, Miss Hattie Ross, Miss Helen Johnson, Miss Jennie Bacon, Miss Inez Barnes and Little Bessie. Secure seats at the usual place."

The Riverside Mill Co. has just finished its semi-annual clean up. The inventory shows 21,000 bushels of wheat on hand and the balance sheet discloses a fair profit on the business for the last six months. The usual dividend will no doubt be declared at the next monthly meeting of the Trustees. The success of this milling enterprise proves that manufacturing in Nevada will pay when carefully managed. The company pays over $200,000 a year for grain and gives steady employment to seven persons at fair wages.

Two of Reno's oldest and most enterprising citizens, men who ought to know better than to let anger override their judgment, had a row yesterday which resulted in one of them receiving a charge of birdshot, which, fortunately, did not seriously injure him. Men ought to know that personal feuds do not settle the rights of property in this or any other civilized community.

A jolly party of Reno people left yesterday afternoon for Donner Lake to spend the glorious Fourth. The party consisted of Misses Ada Finlayson, May Bowen, Grace Wasson, Mable French, Aggie Hall, Cora Angel and Cora Manning and Messrs. Robert Moore, Frank Lee, W. T. Moran, E. Van Harlingen and Henry Rule. They carried with them fishing apparatus and a camping outfit.

The experiment in sugar beet culture by J. A. Blossom of Battle Mountain is proving a great success. The Nevada says the tops are growing rapidly although the season has been a backward one. The raising of sugar beets could become a great industry if a mill could be erected to convert the produce into sugar.
